

In Philadelphia last Saturday, Oct. 12, the PSP declared its intentions to "blow away" Labor Committee organizers. When New Solidarity salesmen arrived at a regular distribution site, nine PSP goons were stationed at the corner of 5th and Canbria Streets --normally a spot where there would be only two PSPers peddling their counterinsurgent rag Claridad.

NCLC Warns Agents of Exposure Before Working Class

The Labor Committees have issued a public warning that if any harm comes to Carmen Caceres, Ramon Ayala, or Juan Caceres, their children, or any members of their families, the Labor Committees and the working class will hold responsible both the PSP and the individuals mentioned above.

PSI CLASS TRAITORS URGE WORKERS TO FOLLOW BRITISH EXAMPLE

Oct. 17 (IPS)--The same factions in the Italian Socialist Party (PSI) which have carried out slanders and goon attacks against the European Labor Committees this week initiated a propoganda campaign aimed at the desperate Italian working class. These PSI factioneers proposed to Italy's trade unions and workers that they follow the example of the British Labour Party. As the Labor Committees have documented, the Labour Party is run entirely by the Rockefeller-funded Tavistock Institute in London, pioneers in brainwashing and psychological warfare.

Three speeches reported in the PSI newspaper Avanti Oct. 15 bring out this theme explicitly. Francesco DeMartino, the Socialist Party secretary and leader of the majority faction, called for "courageous political decisions which first of all will succeed in getting the workers' consensus, just as occurred in Great Britain, on the line indicated by the Labour Party."

DeMartino was echoed by the Socialist parliamentary group leader Mariotti who held out a "new order in national society... meaning contact with the unions, an important political fact which permitted the Labourists themselves to get an absolute majority."

Finally, PSI central committee member and president of the Tuscany regional government Lelio Lagorio announced: "The PSI in substance asks that Wilson's example be followed. Against the strategy of our conservatives, who like the British ones are advancing an anti-crisis program founded on a total no to the neediest classes and defiance of the unions, the PSI--like the Labour Party--counterposes a program of harsh austerity but supported by the unions, with many no's but some yes's capable of tying the masses to the institutions." (emphasis added)

The Reality of the Labour Party

Under the misleadership of the Labour Party, the British population has capitulated to criminal policies like Prime Minister Harold Wilson's "Social Contract," which has driven workers into slave labor conditions in the North Sea oil development projects. Meanwhile, British living standards since last January have collapsed to sub-human levels. In Italy, the major spokesman for the "social contract" has been chief CIA agent Ugo La Malfa, head of the Republican Party.

The Turin daily La Stampa, owned by Trilateral Commission member Gianni Agnelli (of FIAT) and directed by another Trilateral agent Arrigo Levi, quickly picked up the PSI leaders' willingness to adopt the "Labour"-La Malfa-CIA line. Playing on the opportunism of the Italian "Socialists" who hope to pick up votes by following this ploy, La Stampa's editorial today notes: "You can turn the words around however you like, but what you end up with is that social pact of which La Malfa talks and which gave the most votes to the Labour Party in England...There's much uncertainty in the PSI."

The one uncertainty is whether the class traitors in the party leadership will be able to feed the Tavistock line to Italian workers.

ROCKEFELLER "SCANDALS:" PSYWAR ON CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 16 (IPS)--By scurrying away from Nelson Rockefeller's challenge immediately to reopen Senate hearings on his confirmation as Vice President, Congress has admitted that its recent widely-publicized investigation of Rockefeller is a farce.

Rockefeller's demand to testify this week on his six-figure cash gift to Tri-state transportation czar William Ronan and other small-time scandals in effect told Congress to put up or shut up.

"I'm being tried in the press," Rockefeller cried just before Congress reached its decision. However, the sources of the various newspaper stories on his political philanthropy have in all cases been either Rockefeller's own press secretary Hugh Morrow, leading Rockefeller press organ the New York Times, or the handpicked Watergate and Law Enforcement Assistance Administration operatives on the House Judiciary Committee.

Controlled Leaks

The so-called Rockefeller scandals, his financial contributions for a 1970 smear job on Senatorial candidate Arthur Goldberg and contributions to newspaper columnist Thomas Braden, are a product of all three of these "informed sources." Certain persons "close to the Judiciary Committee" leaked the story to New
