

CANADA EMBARGOES WHEAT, SETS UP FOOD BANK

Nov. 13 (IPS)--A spokesman for the Canadian Wheat Board today confirmed that an embargo has been placed on exports of Canadian wheat for the explicit purpose of creating a food bank for "aid" purposes. With this move, Canada, which accounts for upwards of one-quarter of the world's grain supplies, has taken the lead in implementing the Rockefeller cabal's program of mass starvation through international food control.

The creation of such a food bank on a world scale--the "international grain reserve"--is a focal point of the psywar propaganda barrage emanating from the Rockefeller-run World Food Conference in Rome. This centralization of food supplies is the mechanism for implementing rationing on a world scale.

Under the guise of providing aid to the so-called underdeveloped world, where famine has already reached unprecedented proportions, Rockefeller is organizing the net reduction of world food supplies. Highly productive agriculture in the advanced sector--bankrupted by Rockefeller's Oil Hoax and credit squeeze--will be replaced by primitive slave labor agricultural "development" in the so-called Third World. Those select areas of the Third World deemed suitable for the introduction of such labor intensive "development" projects will be rewarded with subsistence levels of food from the World Food Bank.

At the same time that working class consumption in the industrial countries is severely cut back by just such embargoes as the one Canada declared, the entirety of the so-called Fourth World--approximately one billion people--will be condemned to death by starvation.

AP BLOCKS OUT RICHMOND, BOSTON LABOR PARTY VOTE

Nov. 13 (IPS)--When an IPS reporter called the Baltimore Sun today to brief that paper on U.S. Labor Party vote totals in the recent national elections, he was interrupted by the Sun reporter's comment: "Well, you people didn't get over 1-2 per cent of the vote anyway....I was just looking over the Associated Press wire." When asked if the AP wire listed Labor Party vote totals for Richmond, Va., where the Labor Party polled over 30 per cent of the vote in some areas, the response was, "no." The AP wire listed all other "official" Labor Party national vote tallies.

Checking further on this election coverage tampering, IPS called the Associated Press in Washington, D.C., which reported that they get their election results directly from the CIA's newly-created press syndicate in New York, the News Election Service.

To make his own position clear, Wehner went on to attack those left Social Democrats who insist on working-class politics, instead of recognizing that the Volk is, in Wehner's words, made up of "many layers and groupings and must be treated in a differentiated fashion." Wehner whined that he could not remain in a party that saw the world in terms of big finance capitalists versus workers.

The interview occurred two days before membership in the European Labor Committees, and thus any serious fight against the Rockefeller conspiracy, was declared incompatible with membership in the Social Democracy by the party executive.

With these statements Wehner broadcast not merely his demise as an "old fighter" for the working class, but the extensive putrefaction radiating from this political corpse.

Wehner explained that he has no love for Strauss, whom he candidly described as the SPD's "most dangerous domestic enemy," but he argued that practicality may dictate a government coalition with the burly brownshirt.

This funereal rejection of the working class and embrace of Strauss comes at a time when unemployment is rising at the rate of 20 per cent a month. It preceded by a few days the CIA-engineered terror campaign now sweeping West Germany. This red scare hysteria, built around the murder of a West Berlin judge by "Maoist terrorists," is the perfect pretext for a "special emergency." The press has already begun circulating rumors that the West German Chancellor, SPDer Helmut Schmidt, and the SPD Party Chairman, Willy Brandt, might become targets of terrorist violence.

In a related development, the Minister President of the heavily industrial state of Nordrhein-Westphalen, SPD right-winger Heinz Kuehn, recently announced that he "would not exclude" the possibility of a state-level "Grand Coalition" there.

Wehner, a Communist Party member in the 1930s, had long used his left image as an "old party fighter" to gloss over his history of opportunist treachery. It was Wehner who in 1967 engineered the last "Grand Coalition"--the government responsible for the "Emergency Laws" providing the legal means to hand dictatorial powers to the West German government.

Now, as the SPD staggers toward total capitulation to its Rockefeller-directed "Sewer Faction" leadership, Wehner's corpse has hurried to throw its support to the "winning side"--fascist strongman Strauss.
