

Terrorist Assault Primed For U.S.

London fuels intelligence war to break Bremen

British intelligence is mobilizing its "right" and "left" networks abroad, in efforts to foment a bloody wave of terrorism and assassinations in the U.S. The purpose is to preclude U.S. entry into the international Grand Design initiated at the Bremen European Community summit July 6-7.

Carter and the Vance-Young side of the White House, which has reacted favorably to plans for a new monetary system which would replace the IMF, is the main target of the British blackmail and terrorism operation. West German Chancellor Schmidt has been particularly singled out for attack by the British for his pivotal role as an organizer for the new trade and development-based monetary arrangements.

Two of Britain's top intelligence operatives — journalist and Tory political advisor Robert Moss on the "right" and "ex-CIA agent" Philip Agee on the "left" — have been deployed to cover up London's footprints by laying blame for the terror wave on Cuba and "revolutionary" groups within the United States. Under this cover, British intelligence plans to let loose its full array of black operations against Bremen and Bonn with full impunity.

London revealed its intentions to immobilize the Carter Administration through a wave of drug-related scandals in an article by Moss in the London Daily Telegraph on August 7. Moss — a political appointee of the British oligarchy who carries out his role by acting as an "advisor" to various "right-wing" think tanks in Britain and the U.S. — warned that the "Carter drug scandal is not over" and its reverberations would be felt up to the highest levels of the Administration. Moss, a strategist for the London Institute for the Study of Conflict and the U.S.-based Heritage Foundation who also edits the Rothschild-owned Economist's confidential intelligence leak sheet, "Foreign Report," invited "investigative journalists" in the U.S. to "dig deeper" into the Bourne affair.

Moss's article is the signal for another Watergate in Washington conducted by his right-wing allies in such organizations as the Heritage Foundation. After identifying the Institute for Policy Studies — actually

Under the headline "Carter Drug Scandal Is Not over," British intelligence operative Robert Moss called for the watertating of President Carter in his August 7 Daily Telegraph article, excerpted below:

...We have barely begun to scratch the surface of the Bourne affair and it will be interesting to see how deep America's much-vaunted new breed of "investigative reporters" will care to dig. There are two very big questions to be answered:

1. How did Dr. Bourne, with his long record as a radical activist on political issues, as well as the drug question, become a trusted adviser of the President with wide-ranging responsibilities in the White House?

2. How far have other radicals — many of them associated with the Institute for Policy Studies (IPS) — succeeded in penetrating the Carter Administration?

...One wonders how many of the people who voted for Mr. Carter in Georgia in 1976 were aware of the existence of this institute, let alone the involvement of Dr. Bourne, discribed in Carter's campaign material as a "long-term personal friend and advisor."

The link with IPS is striking. The Institute for Policy Studies had been described as the "link between the revolutionary and the respectable Left" in Washington.

...Through seminars, conferences and study groups, the IPS has succeeded over the years in building an impressive range of contacts among congressional staffers and the media....

With the advent of the Carter Administration, some of the friends that the IPS organizers had made in offices in previous years moved into offices in the federal government....

IPS associates pop up in more surprising areas of the Carter Administration....

The lists of IPS fellows contain an impressive number of people with government posts.

Since leading figures in IPS have aggressively supported Vietnam, Cuba, the Palestine Liberation Organizations and the Rhodesian terrorists and have drawn Marxist groups into a widening network, the links of a government official with the Institute may be a cause for legitimate concern.

...Will Mr. Carter now take heed?

one of the key arms of British intelligence in the U.S. — as the “link between the revolutionary and respectable Left” in Washington, Moss conveniently lists the names of IPS associates who now hold key government posts or who otherwise exert a significant degree of influence within the Carter Administration (see box).

In point of fact, the IPS agents who occupy key positions in the White House and elsewhere were planted by British intelligence in the early stages of Carter’s political career.

Moss has also tried a similar blackmail trick against the West German government in revenge for its lead role in organizing the new European Monetary System. In an August 1 Daily Telegraph column Moss alleged that “left-wingers” in the West German Social Democratic Party — such as party chairman Willy Brandt — and other “Ostpolitik” proponents in West German political circles were pressuring Schmidt to accept Soviet proposals for a West German disengagement from NATO. Moss further alleged that Schmidt was ready to accept such proposals because of his impossible relations with President Carter. Unfortunately for Moss, the West German government wasted no time in denouncing Moss’s charges as “baloney.”

Operation Scapegoat

The flip side of Moss’s campaign to target “left” infiltration in U.S. government circles is the current activation of “ex-CIA agent” Philip Agee with his threats to expose the name of every American CIA agent working in countries throughout the world. Agee used the occasion of the recent Cuban Youth Festival to launch his campaign by announcing the formation of “CIA Watch,” an organization set up to deliberately “blow the cover” on CIA officials who pose a threat to British intelligence operations internationally.

In an interview broadcast over Havana radio, Agee announced the publication shortly of his new book entitled “Dirty Work” about the CIA in Europe, in which, he said, “more than 700 persons who have been recently integrated into the CIA offices in Western Europe will be named.” Agee revealed plans for a new bimonthly publication called the Covert Information Bulletin, to be published in Washington. “Naming names” is to be a regular feature, according to Agee.

The particularly dangerous twist in the current Agee deployment is that by launching the anti-CIA campaign in Cuba, Agee has afforded his masters in London the opening to throw blame on the Cuban government for European-style terrorist operations carried out in the U.S. and elsewhere by Agee’s friends and networks.

Agee, although passing himself off as an “ex-CIA agent,” is an active operative of The Fifth Estate, CounterSpy, and the Institute for Policy Studies — all controlled by London. Agee in Cuba is currently “Option A” of London’s various schemes to spark a NATO-Warsaw Pact intelligence war, in the course of which Britain’s Secret Intelligence Services (SIS) would proceed to eliminate every U.S. obstacle to a terrorist assault on the U.S. Confirming that Agee’s “left” campaign to expose CIA agents and Moss’s “right” blackmail against the Carter Administration are emanating from the same source, it may be recalled that Moss himself called for a general housecleaning and “reform” of the CIA a few months ago, specifically to rout out possible “KGB” infiltration.

Nor should it come as a surprise that Moss’s Daily Telegraph, in possession of an advance copy of Agee’s Covert Action Information Bulletin, “leaked the first target: the new CIA station chief in Jamaica.

MOVE Shootout Signals Terror Activation

A Philadelphia police officer was killed and 12 police and firemen injured Aug. 8 when members of the terrorist cult “MOVE” started a gun battle with law enforcement officers who were carrying out a court order to shut down the cult’s commune. The gun battle, prominently played in local and national media, is the go-ahead signal for a broad wave of “European-style” terrorism in the United States.

The MOVE shootout with police erupted when a task force of police, firemen, and Philadelphia health officials attempted to evacuate by court order the 20 or so members from the filth-strewn safehouse they have occupied for the last 15 months.

All the members of the group have been charged with murder in the killing of one officer and the wounding of some dozen others. Following the arrest, MOVE founded “John Africa” (all members use the surname Africa) threatened that its followers in other cities would carry out violence against police in revenge for the Philadelphia eviction.

Despite the attempts by terrorist-linked countergangs and liberal press to portray MOVE as a “religious” group which advocates “simplicity” in lifestyle, law enforcement officials in Richmond, Baltimore, and other locales are fully attuned to the terrorist danger.

Like the Hanafi Muslim sect, which carried out a major terrorist attack in Washington, D.C. in spring 1977, MOVE is a small brainwashed cult whose members are programmed on an “anti-culture” bestialist track. They live in communes without electricity, heat or running water, eat raw meat, and refuse to dispose of either garbage or animal and human excrement.

While the background of the group is still under investigation, it is known that “Delbert Africa,” the second-in-command for the Philadelphia group is former FBI informant William O’Neal, a long-time agent provocateur who infiltrated the Black Panther Party in Chicago and set up the police shootout that led to the death of Black Panther Fred Hampton in 1970.
