

against western values.

If you know British intelligence and British oligarchism, the Vatican had better watch out, because this is a declaration of war in no uncertain terms. There have been many articles threatening that, unfortunately, with this pope, this will not go away, one can only hope for the next pope. If anything were to happen to this pope, I think we would have to look into the quarters of the British Foreign Office to find the originator, and I mean this quite literally. Because the pope, as a clear demonstration that he knows what the hour of history is, will go next week, as of now, not only to Croatia, to Zagreb, but also to Sarajevo, because he obviously wants to make a point, that this slaughter has to stop, and that somebody has to stand up, and even if he is taking a tremendous risk (it's been pointed out that it was Sarajevo, after all, where World War I started), the pope is determined to go. Because, if you know this pope, there is no question that he, in the same way as Lyn, takes the whole world in his mind and in his heart, and he cares for human civilization. Only if you do that, can you speak like that.

Now, it is no accident that it was this pope and Lyn who both reacted to Cairo in the way they did, to understand that something absolutely incredible was happening with the idea of such a conference.

Lyn, in the spring, mobilized this organization in a campaign to stop the Cairo Conference from happening, because the issue was not only homosexuality, abortion, the rights of women, so-called feminism, and all of the confetti, but this was supposed to establish world government, a world dictatorship.

So, Lyn said, let's campaign to close this conference down. We started to do historical research, using what we had already, as well as doing some additional research, and we were able to demonstrate that this conference was, and is, in the tradition of the infamous 1932 eugenics conference in New York. It was exactly the same philosophy as the Nazi Race Hygiene Conference of 1935 in Berlin; the verbiage and the philosophy were identical with Hitler's so-called Generalplan Ost, which was a plan for how to reduce the Slavic populations in Ukraine, Poland, and elsewhere. To this historical understanding, we added that the first evil person who came up with the concept of "carrying capacity,"

In the days leading up to the Sept. 5-13 U.N.-sponsored depopulation conference in Cairo, top British malthusians have become unhinged about Pope John Paul II's opposition to the genocidal agenda of that event. The prize for the most hysterical goes to Conor Cruise O'Brien, the Anglo-Irish wretch who initiated the propagandist campaign in late 1989, lying that the newly unified Germany would be a "Fourth Reich" threatening Europe.

O'Brien is one of Britain's most devoted malthusians. He is a vice president of the non-governmental organization Population Concern, which is leading the mobilization for Cairo both inside Britain and among NGOs internationally. The official patron of Population Concern is royal consort Prince Philip, who is also international president of the World Wide Fund for Nature. Another Population Concern vice president, Richard Dawkins of Oxford University, has proclaimed his desire to "sue the pope," whom he labels "an evil man."

In his column in the Aug. 26 London Independent, O'Brien accused the pope of having formed a "holy and explosive alliance" with the Muslim world, against the Cairo event. O'Brien claimed that "the U.N. Conference on Population and Development . . . is the most important world conference ever. . . . It is also, by no coincidence, the most contentious; so contentious as to involve serious security risks for the host country, Egypt. Finally, this conference will embody the greatest ideological debate in the world today: between those who hold values derived from the Enlightenment, and believers in supernaturally revealed certainties. The principal challenge to the Enlightenment, both at the conference and in its wake, will be posed by the emerging alliance between official Catholicism and fundamentalist Islam."

Furthermore: "To save what can be saved at Cairo, and after Cairo, the Vatican has been busy constructing a new holy alliance, in which the Vatican's principal ally is to be fundamentalist Islam. . . ."

"In the effort to repeal the Enlightenment, the Vatican is being increasingly drawn into an attitude of antagonism to the principal center of diffusion of Enlightenment values: the capitalist West. . . . Under John Paul II, the Vatican now looks set to replace the Kremlin as the principal encourager of a world revolution against western values. There are certainly many in the Catholic Church in the West, and there must be some even in the Vatican itself, who are unhappy about the revolutionary implications of the worldwide papal campaign to repeal the Enlightenment. But I fear that campaign will continue, at least for the duration of the present pontificate."
