

ity was transferred from the Internal Affairs Ministry to the Ministry of Justice. . . .

“But that was not enough for the megaspeculator: The next step was supposed to be a sound whipping of the Georgian police, replacing its top cadres with ‘decent persons’ selected by him and Saakashvili.”

Soros’s role in the “new” police force, continued Bessonov, “may explain the unexpectedly easy surrender of the police to the crowd under the Crusaders’ banners, on Nov. 21 [2003]. For the whole period from September 2001 till November 2003, Saakashvili was under ardent tutelage from George Soros. The latter’s Open Society Georgia Foundation co-founded the Liberty Institute of Georgia, and launched a ‘youth assistance program.’ Its young disciples were promptly organized into a movement entitled Kmara! (Enough!), which took lessons in organizing protest actions from professionals in former Yugoslavia and Ukraine.

“The broad-shouldered young guys in leather jackets, who mounted the tribune of the Parliament on Saturday, Nov. 22, smashing tables and chairs, belonged to Kmara! As the BBC’s correspondent said, these persons ‘hissed out’ the elected President from the Parliament building. The social-populist phraseology of Saakashvili and the choice of Gori as launch-place for the decisive move into Tbilisi, represent nothing new in this sort of ‘regime change’ operation. Anywhere George Soros appeared in the post-Soviet area, he would mimic the character of the local protest mood. In Lviv, Ukraine, his magazine Derzhavnist (Statehood) introduced the idea of “Ukraine as the Fourth Rome,” and published an article saying that the execution of Jews in Babiy Yar, near Kiev, in 1941, was actually an execution of Ukrainian patriots by Jewish commissars. The local Jewish community was shocked . . . but such details have never bothered Soros. . . .

“It was St. George’s day on Sunday, Nov. 23, [2003] when Shevardnadze resigned. George Soros’ day was celebrated with gallons of wine in the central squares of Tbilisi.”

Soros’s shock troops also ran the streets in the Ukraine “Orange Revolution,” and he tried the same scenario, unsuccessfully, throughout the Commonwealth of Independent States. It is high time that all Soros operations in these countries were shut down, in the interest of defending sovereignty.

Anton Chaitkin and other EIR staff members contributed research for this article.

Lord Malloch Brown

Soros Man Is British Conduit to Obama

by Anton Chaitkin

Denouncing British agent George Soros for his hand in London-led efforts to trigger World War III, Lyndon LaRouche said on Aug. 9, “If you want a preview of what the United States would be like under a President Barack Obama, just look at Georgia’s recent actions. Georgian President Saakashvili, like Obama, is owned by the same British godfather—George Soros. Would Soros’s man Obama be another Dick Cheney if he got into office?”

A Feb. 24, 2008 London Times interview sheds some light on the matter: Obama’s longtime foreign policy advisor Samantha Power revealed that, “the principal conduit between Britain and the candidate has been Lord [Mark] Malloch Brown, the junior foreign minister, whom Obama came to admire when he [Malloch Brown] was deputy secretary-general of the United Nations. [Obama] was really taken with him. It’s a relationship that has persisted and they have talked a number of times since.’”

Two weeks after this revelation, or boast, Power was forced out of the Obama campaign staff, due to her remark on March 6 that Hillary Clinton “is a monster.”

Since Power’s little-noticed February interview, a new light has been thrown on these relationships:

- Lord Malloch Brown and George Soros together formed and financed the present government of Georgia, and their apparatus ran the recent catastrophic war provocation against Russia; and by the fact that,
- All three, the British official, candidate Obama, and political operative Samantha Power, have each been purchased by billionaire speculator Soros.

The Triple Payoff

In a 2004 forum, Power commented on her 2003 book, A Problem from Hell: America and the Age of Genocide, that no one was interested in it: “My book and my research was utterly unsustainable on the free market. If I hadn't been able to get a grant from George Soros and the Open Society Institute, there is no way that I could have done the kind of investigative reporting that I needed to do..."

In 2004, Soros put together $60,000 for Obama's campaign for the U.S. Senate. Then a little-known state senator, Obama was the only candidate in the country with whom Soros met personally, and Soros later brought Obama to his New York home for a fundraising event.

Once Obama was elected to the U.S. Senate, he met with Samantha Power to discuss her Soros-financed book. She joined his Senate staff in 2005, educating him on how to carry out the British empire policy of destroying national sovereignty in Africa.

Soros and Malloch Brown were a political team working the British manipulations in the Balkans conflicts, back in the early 1990s, when Power took up the British line in her assignments reporting those conflicts for the Economist of London and other publications. Malloch Brown stayed in a Soros-owned apartment, and eventually became vice president of Soros's Quantum Fund; and there were other perks. In her 2008 book, Chasing the Flame, on UN negotiator Sergio Vieira de Mello, who was killed in Iraq in 2003, Power reports that Vieira and his buddy, fellow UN official Malloch Brown, shared the same mistress.

Malloch Brown has increasingly been found at

Ariel Gutierrez

Barack Obama "was really taken with" Baron Mark Malloch-Brown (right), according to the London Times. Malloch-Brown is the British agent, who has teamed up with confessed Nazi George Soros (left), who, in turn, owns both Saakashvili and Obama.

Power's side: Since her own 2003 sponsorship by Soros, Malloch Brown has spoken at the Carr Center for Human Rights Policy, founded at Harvard University by Power. And in various venues the two have drummed up regime changes and destabilizations in Africa and Asia—his assigned British imperial task.

On Dec. 4, 2006, Power's putative boss, Senator Obama, met with her financial backer Soros, in Soros's Manhattan office for a one-hour interview. Soros then took Obama into a conference with a dozen ultra-wealthy political donors, key among them UBS (Union Bank of Switzerland/Swiss Bank) U.S. chief Robert Wolf, and hedge fund manager Orin Kramer. A month later, finances assured, Obama publicly announced he was running for President. Soros himself staged two colossal fundraising events for Obama, in April and May, 2007. By that time Robert Wolf had raised $500,000 for the Obama candidacy, and the Billionaires' Club was solidly on board.

One may thus have full confidence that Samantha Power was in a position to know about the confidential relations between Obama and the Lord Malloch Brown, when she spilled the beans to the London Times last February.

HOTLINE

LaRouche and EIR Staff
Recorded Briefings
—24 Hours Daily
916-233-0630, Box 595