

Editorial

The Source of the Pestilence: The WWF

It is no coincidence that “Earth Week,” the pagan celebration launched by the British-spawned Malthusian environmental movement, was the setting for the outbreak of the latest potential pandemic, the incidence of a deadly form of swine flu in Mexico. For, as Lyndon LaRouche stressed, the World Wildlife Fund (WWF) of Nazi Prince Philip and Hitler-lover Prince Bernhard, who spawned the mass anti-human movement in the 1960s, created the environment which wrought this disaster, and they fully deserve the blame.

As of this writing, the scope and potential of the flu outbreak cannot be predicted. Incidences of the swine-flu-like virus have caused more than 80 deaths in Mexico, and apparently infected more than 1,000 others, at the same time that less virulent cases of the same viral infection have been found in at least four states of the United States—California, Kansas, Texas, and New York. The source of the deadly infection is not known, and despite competent public health measures now finally being taken in Mexico and the United States, there is no reason to believe that the spread of the disease is under control.

The reasons for the deadly toll of the disease in Mexico, go to the heart of the responsibility of the British Empire’s WWF. Under the WWF’s ideology, which has infected the entire world financial system and most governments, there has been a dramatic takedown of living standards through deindustrialization and “green” environmentalism, including the reduction of nutritional and public health standards to genocidal levels. As LaRouche has long explained, these policies have created the certainty of an explosion of disease and pandemics—the only question being when and where these disasters would strike.

As for the WWF, its view, as expressed repeatedly by the evil Prince Philip, is to reduce the world’s population, to a size it considers “manageable.”

LaRouche added that the other key factor in the current crisis is “the demoralization which has occurred with the breakdown of the Obama Administration, since its trip to London. This has meant that the nations which would otherwise have been kicked into mobilizing for this kind of problem, did not. And this is the effect of political corruption, of that type, on general health. Because the key thing, in public health, is the mobilization to maintain the objectives of public health.”

While the Mexican government clearly did not move expeditiously enough on the outbreak, LaRouche stressed that blame has to be put on the U.S. government as well.

You had a breakdown in the U.S. government, LaRouche said. They weren’t on the ball in this case; they should have been fishing for this. Because in these conditions, and as long as you have a Larry Summers influencing the President’s perception of reality, you are going to have more of this kind of disaster. We can describe Summers as a pestilence of his own.

LaRouche and EIR, our readers may recall, have been warning of the danger of biological holocaust as a result of genocidal economic policies, since 1974, when LaRouche convened a biological holocaust task force to explore the dangers which IMF austerity conditionalities were creating in the Third World. One such outbreak since that time has been AIDS, which has killed tens of millions. Now, another such horror looms. The only means for preventing a hecatomb is to get rid of the British Empire—by implementing LaRouche’s New Bretton Woods financial reorganization.